

Time Flows Like Water

While watching the flow of the Hudson River, I often think about what Confucius said while standing on the banks of the Yellow River:
“Things pass like this, no matter day or night.”

When you're older, time seems to go faster. The title of my last exhibition in Hastings was Ten Years in the U.S. Now, suddenly, I'm approaching my 16th year as a resident of the United States. Over these years I have met Ruth Berelson, Ellen Crane and Gina Randazzo, getting to know them and their work. The spirit and beauty of their art has remained in my memory, like pieces of poetry. I suggested we put together an exhibition. In the cold of winter we are delighted to share this work with you in the nice, warm and charming Spring Street Studio.
